

Question 11

Can a magnitude of a vector be negative?

Solution

No, the magnitude of a vector cannot be negative because it's the square root of the sum of the squares of the vector's components. The range of a square root function does not include the negative numbers.