

Problem 1.5

When you're sick with a fever and you take your temperature with a thermometer, approximately what is the relaxation time?

Solution

The relaxation time (the time needed for a system to come to thermal equilibrium) for a thermometer is approximately two minutes.