

Problem 1.6

Give an example to illustrate why you cannot accurately judge the temperature of an object by how hot or cold it feels to the touch.

---

Solution

When you have really cold hands and touch water at room temperature, it feels hotter than it is.